RED BULL RING – CIRCUIT DETAILS

The new Red Bull Ring complies with all current international safety standards. This means that every type of racing permitted under FIA (four-wheel) rules can be held there. Its length is 4.3 kilometers, and its routing is equal to the track used between 1996 and 2003, whose layout was designed by the world's most famous Grand Prix track architect Hermann Tilke.

Part of what makes this race track so attractive is the sloping terrain that surrounds it, creating a natural arena. Natural areas help solving the discrepancy between safety and the closeness of the spectators to the action in the best possible way. In the best spots, one practically sits above the race cars and can spot the drivers in their cockpits as they brake into and accelerate out of the corners, giving spectators the feeling of being part of the action; at most other tracks you are so far away you have to use binoculars. Certain places allow views of two thirds of the track, and it is not unusual to witness the now-rare spectacle of cars powersliding; the road surface lends itself to powersliding more than newly designed tracks. Since 2011, the Red Bull Ring has welcomed many major top-class racing series such as Formula 1, MotoGP, DTM and hosted many exciting races in various classes. The aim is to offer a balanced season programme with a mix of race events, presentations, testing and public activities.

SIX DECADES OF MOTORSPORT

At the Red Bull Ring, the smell of decades of exciting motorsport history lingers in the air. The Formula One races first took place at the Zeltweg airfield and then on what is now the Red Bull Ring. Jochen Rindt, Niki Lauda, Alain Prost, and Michael Schumacher all raced at top speed around this legendary track. The history of this famous circuit is characterised by several turning points.

ZELTWEG AIRFIELD

The race held in 1963 at the military airstrip in Zeltweg was given the title "First Grand Prix of Austria" but did not yet have world championship status. That changed in 1964, as the following race in Zeltweg did have world championship status.

ÖSTERREICHRING (1969–1995)

The opening of the Österreichring meant the end of the bumpy old Zeltweg airfield track, which the drivers had grown to hate. In 1970 it saw its first Formula 1 Grand Prix. What was exciting about that period was the contest to build Europe's fastest race track, faster than the Hockenheimring and Spa-Francorchamps. During the final Grand Prix in 1987 pole-sitter Nelson Piquet's time of 1:23.357 minutes around the 5.942 km track set an average speed record for the circuit of 256.621 km/h. Concerns about the Österreichring's safety had reached ahead in the mid-1990s, and it was completely rebuilt in 1995 and 1996.

A1 RING (1996–2003)

For safety reasons, the Österreichring was rebuilt by Hermann Tilke. Its length was reduced from 5.942 km to 4.326 km, and three narrow clockwise turns replaced fast and sharp turns to create space for overtaking. Seven Grand Prix races took place from that point onwards, some of which were fabulous, some of which patchy (team orders). 2003 saw the last Austrian Grand Prix on this track layout. After the end of the season, the diggers moved in to tear down part of the track.

RED BULL RING (2011–PRESENT)

Three years were spent on updating and upgrading Spielberg. On 15 May 2011, the time had finally come – Projekt Spielberg officially presented the new Red Bull Ring to the world of motorsport. In June, the DTM became the first major motorsport racing series to thrill tens of thousands of motorsport fans at the Red Bull Ring. The championship has returned to the circuit every year since then. In 2014, after eleven years, Formula 1 returned to Spielberg.

CULTURE MEETS SPEED: VIENNESE TALENTS OPEN AUSTRIAN GRAND PRIX

On the 29th of June, the eyes of the motorsport world will once again turn to the Red Bull Ring in Austria's state of Styria. Traditionally, the Spielberg-based track places great importance on providing domestic cultural heritage with a stage shortly before the race begins. For the second time after 2017, the Vienna Boys Choir will line up on the start-finish straight in front of the F1 stars once again to perform the Austrian National Anthem in 2025. They will be accompanied by an extraordinary ensemble consisting of the Vienna Girls Choir and eight dancers of the youth company of the Ballet academy of the Vienna State Opera.

Vienna Boys Choir, Vienna Girls Choir and dancers of the youth company of the Ballet academy of the Vienna State Opera will enchant both stars and fans. Playing some 300 shows every year in front of almost half a million people on all continents, the Vienna Boys Choir performs in the most renowned concert halls of the world. On 29 June, they will carry Austrian cultural heritage out into the world together with the Vienna Girls Choir in a live performance just before the Austrian Grand Prix 2025. They very rarely take to the stage together. Thus, their performance of the Austrian National Anthem "Land der Berge" on the start-finish straight of the Red Bull Ring will join a short list of events such as their appearance during the 2023 New Year's Concert or the re-opening of the Austrian Parliament. 52 singers between the ages of 10 and 14 will sing the National Anthem on the grid accompanied by a dance performance by eight dancers of the youth company of the Ballet academy of the Vienna State Opera. This performance was choreographed by Eno Peci, one of the solo dancers of the Vienna State Ballet, in close collaboration with ballet master Callum Hastie.

More than half a millennium of Austrian cultural heritage. A private club with 90 current active members, the Vienna Boys' Choir is divided into four concert choirs with its more than 500-year history making it an important part of Austria's valuable cultural heritage. The choirs are among the Alpine republic's most important ambassadors. In 1498 future emperor Maximilian I. moved his court and court music to Vienna, laying the foundation stone for the Vienna Boys Choir. Over the centuries, the Viennese Court attracted famous musicians such as Gluck, Salieri, Mozart and Bruckner. Joseph Haydn and Franz Schubert were choir boys themselves. Honoured by the UNESCO, the choir accepts talents from all kinds of backgrounds - regardless of origin, sex, nationality or religion.

The Vienna Girls Choir marks the Vienna Boys Choir independent girls choir. Started in 2004 with a handful of singers, it has grown to become a chamber choir of 26 young girls between the ages of 10 and 14. The girls attend the grammar school of the Vienna Boys Choir. Most of the time, the Vienna Girls Choir performs its own concerts. Their first major tour in the early summer of 2025 took them to Austria, Germany, Switzerland, Slovenia and Italy.

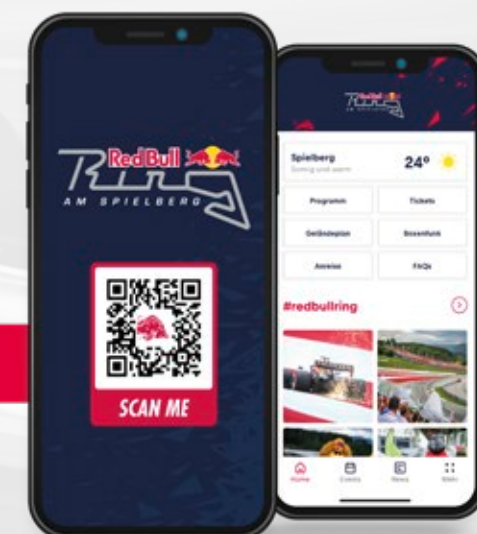

Renowned young dancer training at the Ballet Academy. At this time, some 138 students from 28 countries are being trained at the Ballet Academy of the Vienna State Opera. After graduation, its youth company allows them to develop artistically and technically with renowned choreographers in the Vienna State Ballet, Vienna State Opera and Vienna Volksoper. Furthermore, its members star in the youth company's own performances and the Ballet Academy's annual matinée, during which they offer a sophisticated programme on the big stage of the Vienna State Opera.

THE NATIONAL ANTHEM IS PLAYED AT 14:44 ON THE GRID.

RED BULL LEGENDS PARADE 2025 - MOVIE CARS

James Bond, Eleanor, Rush, Top Gun, Bullitt, Fast & Furious, the A-Team... No, you haven't been transported to a 'Best of Hollywood' show – you're at the Austrian Grand Prix! The 2025 home race of the Oracle Red Bull Racing team is augmented by a programme of side events that only the Red Bull Ring could lay on. Austria's biggest sporting event of the year will once again be a non-stop extravaganza of entertainment. The main event at the Red Bull Ring will, of course, be four-time world champion Max Verstappen defending his title, but also high on the list of attractions is the Red Bull Legends Parade featuring amazing movie cars including an Aston Martin, Dodge Charger, Ford Mustang, Plymouth Hemi Cuda, Porsche and Ferrari.

THE FASCINATION OF MOVIE CARS AT THE 2025 RED BULL LEGENDS PARADE

The Austrian Formula 1 Grand Prix has a distinct Hollywood feel to it in 2025. To coincide with the premiere of this year's blockbuster 'F1® The Movie', one of the original cars from the film, driven by the fictive APXGP F1 Team by Brad Pitt, will join the automotive Hollywood stars at the Legends Parade. Under the billing of 'Movie Cars', hot rods from the dream factory and TV classics will stir up emotions and bring back memories. The line-up includes famous cars from several cult films and iconic motorsport racing cars that became the main characters in film adaptations (along with their drivers, of course!). But it's not just four-wheeled icons that will be doing a lap around the circuit, there is also a replica of the Kawasaki GPz 900R Ninja which Tom Cruise made famous in 'Top Gun'. Let yourself be whisked away into the world of Hollywood in the somewhat incongruous setting of the Mur valley.

RED BULL LEGENDS PARADE 2025 MOVIE CARS – FILM & VEHICLE

The A-Team: GMC Vandura

Bullitt: Ford Mustang Fastback GT 390, Dodge Charger 440 R/T

The Dukes of Hazzard: Dodge Charger 'General Lee'

Fast & Furious: Plymouth Hemi Cuda, Nissan Skyline R34 GT-R, Volkswagen Jetta, Toyota Supra MK IV

F1® The Movie: Race car of the APXGP team
